Derrick Buffalo Visiting Executive Program Spring 2019

Derrick Buffaloe, Delivery Partner Executive with IBM, was the School of Business Visiting Executive March 6. He spoke in Dr. Taylor's Project Management class about obstacles he faced along his career path. Overcoming those obstacles resulted in rising to the position he holds today at IBM. He noted that taking on new roles and challenging tasks helped him to grow, gain expertise, and establish his reputation. He had a dream, set a goal, and never stopped believing in his ability to accomplish his dream.

Vaughan auditorium was filled for Mr. Buffaloe's presentation "Designing You!" He related the path of his long career with IBM and gave suggestions for career planning. He advised students to reach for their dreams by setting goals and putting in the extra time and effort required to achieve those goals. In doing so, he added, it is important to observe and understand the environment in the workplace and learn how to take advantage of opportunities. A key component of his success has been his willingness to seek and accept criticism. He advised students to avoid feeling offended by constructive criticism, as that is what leads to an understanding of expectations and helps one focus on improvement efforts.

Mila Vejnovic Student of the Month March 2019

When Mila Veinovic came to visit Chowan, she saw the bridge at Lake Vann, the fountain, and all the nature around campus and she knew it was the place for her. Her home country, Serbia, is full of beautiful views and sights, and the campus of Chowan brought back memories of the nature she had left two years earlier. She liked the small, friendly campus and quickly found she could make it her home away from home. After completing two years at a Garden City Community College in Kansas, she transferred to Chowan to complete her bachelor's degree in centration in information systems.

She was inducted into three honor societies: Sigma Beta Delta, Chi Alpha Sigma, and Alpha Chi. Her achievements led to her internship this spring in Chowan's Development Office.

Being away from home for four years with only one trip back to visit her parents and family has been very challenging for Mila. She adjusted to being on her own and learned to be very independent. Mila was always taught to "work hard while you're young, things will be easier later," advice she believes helped her overcome tough times.

After next month's graduation, and attend a programming school Mila made a name for herself in there to secure a job as a software turning home and putting the knowledge she gained at Chowan to work. Congratulations, Mila, on your selection as the Student of the Month!

PBL RELAYS

Phi Beta Lambda members participated in the Relay for Life event on campus on April 12. "Because more birthdays mean eating more cake" was PBL's team theme. Slices of homemade cake were available for sale. A series of cake walks, which are a version of musical chairs where the last person left wins a cake, provided some healthy competition and definite entertainment for participants and onlookers.

Thank you to faculty, staff, and students for your donations and support of Phi Beta Lambda's Relay for Life fundraisers.

Alex Dendy Student of the Month April 2019

Alex Dendy is the Chowan School of Business Student of the Month for April 2019. He is also a Sigma Beta Delta Business Honor Society member, member of Alpha Chi, and President's List honoree.

Alex commutes to Chowan from his home in Tyner, NC. When considering colleges to attend, he had no preconceived notions of where he wanted to go - he just knew that he wanted to be close to home. When he visited Chowan, he liked the general vibe of the campus and, once he arrived, appreciated the small classes and teacher engagement. He also likes that Chowan, though a Christian school, doesn't Alex began his Chowan experience attempt to force a particular belief as a psychology major but quickly system. When asked for advice to pass on to other students, Alex stressed the importance of being realistic about one's own dreams. "You may think you know what you want to do with your life but let experience lead the way. In your first two years, discover who you really are." Then, to first year students in particular, he added, "Go to class and do the homework. Don't procrastinate."

Congratulations, Alex, on being of Business. We look forward to celebrating your graduation on May 11!

School of Business Etiquette Dinner

The 9th Annual Etiquette Dinner was held on March 20 in the Chowan Room with 26 students attending. Faculty played the role of potential employers hosting applicants at a dinner interview. The meal was designed to present challenges to the diners while the speaker provided recommendations on appropriate etiquette in a professional setting.

Attendees are grateful to Pioneer Catering and its staff for an excellent meal and dining experience.

Chelsea Rose Student of the Month May 2019

Chelsea Rose is May's Student of the Month. Chelsea is a native of Murfreesboro and thus has always been familiar with Chowan University. After she attended high school at Northeast Academy in Lasker, she decided to enroll in the School of Business because it was close to home and she received a scholarship to play golf. This May, Chelsea will finish her Bachelor of Science in Business Administration degree with a concentration is Accounting.

From her first semester, she found she loved the family-like environment, the one-on-one relationships she has built with her professors, and the small class sizes that have allowed her to make these connections. Of the professors in in my career." the School of Business, she says, they "have not only helped Chowan Women's Golf team from with academic and technical skills.

Taylor Featured in Publication

Mrs. Patsy Taylor, Associate Professor of Marketing, was featured in the local publication of Crossroads magazine. She has taught in the School of Business for 28 years. We are proud of Mrs. Taylor and her commitment to Chowan and our students.

Congratulations on this well-deserved recognition.

School of Business Students Earn Six Sigma Certificates

Students in Dr. Misenheimer's Operations Management class studied Six Sigma, a means to improve processes and reduce errors in an organization. Certifications of mastery of the Six Sigma concepts are issued by many firms, with no single oversight group. A class assignment had students reviewing the video of The Council for Six Sigma Certification and taking the test on the material. Those passing the test were awarded the White Belt, signifying knowledge of the basic overview of Six Sigma methodology. Some students chose to continue to additional training to achieve the Yellow Belt from the Management and Strategy Institute. The Yellow Belt certifies that the individual understands the basic Six Sigma concepts and can work on local problem-solving teams supporting overall project.

Those earning Yellow Belt certifications are Tyler Bembry, Wyatt Beakler, Harley Davidson, Kevon Godfrey, Ioannis Kiotsekoglou, Mitchell Levi-Lewis, LaVonda Mitchell, and Demetrius Sanders.
